CORLISS- CARRINGTON HOUSE

now hosting events

200 years in the making

OUR STORY

Construction of The Corliss-Carrington House began in 1810 by John Corliss, a well know businessman in Providence. While Corliss was unable to complete the build, the property was purchased by Edward Carrington in 1812. Carrington finished the construction; adding a third floor and the showstopping double-story front porch, fitted with Corinthian and Ionic iron columns.

The house remained in the Carrington family for over 100 year until 1936, when it was gifted to the Rhode Island School of Design, and served as a museum. In 1961 the property came under private ownership. Shortly thereafter, in 1970 The Corliss-Carrington House was officially registered as a National Historic Landmark, demonstrating its exceptional value and role in American history.

The current proprietor, Lorne Adrain, holds the estate in the highest of regards; viewing his role not as an owner, but as a steward of the property. Over 200 years later, The Corliss Carrington House still serves as one of Providence's most dramatic and well-preserved founding estates.

OUR FUTURE

The Corliss-Carrington House is opening our doors to share the unique property with the public, and will now be hosting weddings. Our venue is for couples who dream of celebrating in a space that is timeless with modern amenities, wonderfully bold yet understated, and features historic touches in a blissfully romantic fashion. Our hope is to work with couples who honor the organic essence of the property and value the thoughtfulness that has been put into maintaining its integrity throughout the years.

While conveniently located just one mile from downtown Providence, from your first step onto the one acre property, you will be transported into a realm that feels far away from the hustle and bustle of the city. We affectionately call our arched entrance 'the portal', as it introduces you to a new world; one that is entrenched in cobblestones, draping foliage and showstopping craftsmanship. While we love and respect the history of the property, there are thoughtful upgrades that include dimmable lighting, heating and air conditioning, and a full chef's kitchen.

Only scheduling one wedding per week, the estate offers unparalleled privacy and the opportunity for you and your loved ones to be fully engulfed in the space. We've opened our doors, now we hope you'll step through.
